

ARRIVAL BY: TRAIN, CAR, PLANE; TRAVEL IN TOWN

By train

Trento is connected with direct fast trains to Verona, Bologna, Venezia, Roma, Napoli and München Hbf. The main train station is Trento Centrale.

If you don't depart from any of those cities, it is likely you will have to change your train in Verona Porta Nuova.

Time tables and prices are available in the websites of Trenitalia, OBB, Deutsche Bahn and Trainline.

By car

The easiest way to reach Trento by car is the Autostrada del Brennero A22 / E45: exit at "Trento Sud" if you come from south or "Trento Nord - Interporto" if you come from north.

By plane

Trento does not have an airport: the nearest three in Italy are the Aeroporto Valerio Catullo in Verona, the Aeroporto Internazionale Marco Polo in Venezia and the Aeroporto G. Marconi in Bologna.

- Flying to Verona (VRN)

For a list of direct connections with this airport, see this website.

From the Valerio Catullo airport, you would then need to reach the train station Verona Porta Nuova: you can take the Aerobus 199 (see also HERE), which leaves every 20 minutes from the airport; the ticket can be bought on board, and costs 6€; then take a train to Trento: see "By train" - the train trip should last approximately 1 hour, and you won't have to change train.

- Flying to Venezia (VCE)

For a list of direct connections with this airport, see this website.

From the Marco Polo airport, you would then need to reach the train station Venezia Mestre: you can take the bus 15 (for more information and timetables see HERE), which leaves every 30 minutes from the airport; the ticket can be bought at the bus stop, and costs 8€; then take a train to Trento: see “By train” – the train trip should last approximately between 1 hour 55 minutes, if you pass through Verona (if possible, book with a good advance the OBB Eurocity, so you won’t have to change; this, however, only runs once a day, leaving Venezia Mestre at 14:02), and 3 hours 20 minutes, if you pass through Bassano del Grappa (this alternative is in general not recommended; if you can’t take the OBB, book a trip with change in Verona Porta Nuova).

- Flying to Bologna (BLQ)

For a list of direct connections with this airport, see this website.

From the G. Marconi airport, you would then need to reach the train station Bologna centrale: you can take Aerobus-BLQ (for more information and timetables see HERE), which leaves every 11 minutes from the airport; the ticket can be bought online or from the automatic vending machines located in the airport, and costs 6€; then take a train to Trento: see “By train” – the train trip should last approximately between 1 hour 55 minutes (if you take the OBB Eurocity or a Frecciargento) and 2 hours 45 minutes (if you take the Regionale Veloce).

Travel in the city center

A map of the city center is available HERE.

Conference Venue

From the train station, you can reach the conference venue as described below:

Once outside the central station, keep the park (Giardini pubblici - Piazza Dante) on your left and follow Via Andrea Pozzo, cross Via Torre Vanga at the traffic light and continue in Via delle Orfane. Turn right before Chiesa di Santa Maria Maggiore, then left in Via della Prepositura. Continue in Via Rosmini, then turn right in Via Giuseppe Verdi (A MORE DETAILED INFORMATION WILL BE AVAILABLE SOON).

Alternatively, take a bus (any from this list: 2, 4, 5, 5/, 8, 9, 10, 12, 13, 14) right in front of the train station, and get off at “Rosmini - S. Maria Maggiore”, then follow the directions above starting from “Continue in Via Rosmini”. Tickets for the bus can be bought on board at the price of 2€, or at news stand inside the station, or in any “Tabaccheria” in the city, for 1.20€; tickets are valid for 90 minutes after validation and for one person only.

If you book a hotel in the city center, the best way to reach the Department is walking; if you prefer public transport, or you have booked a room far from the Department, Google Maps has all the time tables and routes of the buses you might take. A list with all the timetables (unfortunately you must select a route in order to view the respective timetable) can be found HERE. You can buy a subscription valid for one week for the cost of 8.10€ or 9€ (“Settimanale da lunedì a domenica”, see HERE - unfortunately, the website is only in italian), depending on how far your accommodation is from the conference venue.

Uber service is not available in Italy. Taxi is also an option in case of need. You can book a taxi by phoning the call center, by email or sms. For more information, see TaxiTrento.
